BOARD OF GOVERNORS

The regular meeting of the Board of Governors was held Friday, 7 January. The following items were among those considered.

Vice-Presidency (Academic)

Members of the Board enthusiastically accepted the withdrawal of M. Horowitz's resignation.

J.D. Muir Research Fund

The Board of Governors authorized the establishment of the J.D. Muir Research Fund.

The fund has been established in honor of the late professor who died on 30 April 1976 shortly before he was to become the Dean of the Faculty of Business Administration and Commerce. Dr. Muir, who joined the University in 1964, was seconded to the University of Nairobi in Kenya and served as the Dean of Commerce there.

The fund will be open to all permanent members of the Faculty of Business Administration and Commerce at this University. It will provide a total of $47,500 to be used over a four-year period for studies in management performance. Allocation will be made upon the recommendation of the Faculty's Research and Workshop Committee. The money will come from the overhead allowance included in the funds that the University will receive from the Canadian International Development Agency under the terms of a contract that was renewed by the Board. It provides for the University's assistance to the Nairobi commerce faculty.

The agreement with CIDA involves provision of staff by the Faculty of Business Administration and Commerce for the University of Nairobi, Kenya, for a four year period.

Future direction of the Faculty of Extension

The Board received for information a plan for the future direction of the Faculty of Extension. Its general objective is to provide extension services to Albertans, concentrating on, but not necessarily limited to, the northern part of the province. The Faculty will emphasize such aspects as non-degree courses, workshops, and seminars; provision of degree credit courses to part-time students at the University; and consulting services for individuals, community groups, and institutions in matters related to academic competencies and professional interests of Faculty members.

It also plans to offer training programs to those engaged in teaching adults and to organize and conduct continuing education programs. It will continue to lend books and provide library reference services to all rural Albertans, to carry out research and publication activities related to adult education, and to ensure that a high level of coordination and mutual support is maintained between the Faculty of Extension and other agencies operating in the province.

EXTENDED PRACTICUM REFUSED

In a 15 December letter to the Board of Teacher Education and Certification, a government-sponsored advisory body, Alberta's two education ministers effectively put a stop to hopes for provincial funding of an extended practicum. Julian Koziak and A.E. Hohol, Ministers of Education and Advanced Education and Manpower, made it abundantly clear to Board members that their long-standing proposals for implementing upgraded teacher preparation programs were unacceptable should any additional funds be required.

University faculties of education, the Alberta School Trustees' Association, and the Alberta Teachers' Association have persistently maintained that inadequacies in classroom experience requirements for teacher candidates must be corrected by practical programs extending over one semester. In response to demands from both the public and the government for quality improvements in education, the profession, the Trustees' Association, and the faculties of education cooperatively have developed programs which would enable teacher candidates to have a much longer, in-depth exposure to modern teaching methods and techniques in regular classrooms under the supervision of carefully selected professionals.

Government rejection of this highly promising and widely supported approach to improving educational standards is inconsistent with its recent pronouncements on quality education and in direct contradiction to its announced intention to proceed with plans for upgrading the quality of instruction in schools.

At a recent meeting, representatives of the

ATA, ASTA, and the three faculties of education discussed the implications of the ministers' decision that they could proceed if they so chose, but without any of the additional resources required. Observations by the group indicated that "the Ministers' action would create additional problems and stresses in the education community, with noticeable deterioration in the amount and quality of service available for teacher preparation. Several unmanageable financial and administrative problems will likely emerge at the university and school system levels because the nature of teacher participation beyond June 1977 is uncertain. The Ministers' decision was untimely, unnecessary, and unjustifiable in view of the Minister of Education's previous requests for all party cooperation during 1976-77 and the vast efforts and expenditure made by organizations in planning new programs which received at least token encouragement over the past year."

Representatives of the organizations and institutions present at that meeting were extremely disappointed that their serious concerted effort to respond to public demands for upgrading of educational standards and services has been unsuccessful. The news that minimal programs would be continued indefinitely unless these groups could finance recommended changes themselves was no consolation.

The decision of the Ministers was relayed without reasons but with an accompanying terse refusal to meet with Board members on the issue. It stated, in part, that "the guidelines for Teacher Education and Certification in respect of practical experiences will remain as they are now, that is, prospective teachers will require one full course equivalent in practical experience. Should any Faculty of Education wish to make available to its students or require of its students an amount of practical experience in excess of that required by the guidelines for teacher certification, it is encouraged to do so. No additional earmarked funds will be made available to any university for this purpose."

SURPLUS EQUIPMENT LISTING

A university of this size uses a tremendous amount of equipment—everything from ordinary office equipment to sophisticated scientific research equipment. And while most of this equipment is used on a regular basis, there is also some that is not.

For whatever reasons, there is a certain amount of equipment on campus that is surplus. Departments often find themselves storing all sorts of equipment that they no longer have any use for; sometimes this equipment is obsolete for some particular department's purposes (though it is still useful). This surplus equipment is nevertheless still valuable and could conceivably be used by some other department.

The Purchasing Department, which is responsible for obtaining and distributing goods and services required by the University, would like to encourage University staff to get this surplus and stored equipment back into use on campus. A few years ago, departments with surplus equipment may have been reluctant to declare the equipment for sale since the revenue obtained was put back into a general fund and the department did not receive credit for it. More recently, however, a credit system was introduced. Now surplus equipment may be sold to generate money for the purchase of other equipment.

The procedure for declaring and disposing of surplus equipment is relatively simple. On declaration forms obtained from the Purchasing Department (telephone 432-3208), the department with surplus equipment declares that it has surplus equipment that it wishes to sell, trade, or give away. Depending on what the department concerned wishes to do, equipment can be declared for sale or simply for the obtaining of offers.

Once the declaration has been made, a Buyer from Purchasing may check with various departments on campus to see if they would be interested in the equipment, or the equipment may be listed in Folio. Interested departments then negotiate with the department that owns the surplus equipment. The two departments work out the details of the transaction themselves; the Purchasing Department simply records the transaction and arranges the transfer of funds.

If no department on campus is interested in the equipment, other institutions across Canada may be contacted to find a buyer. If no buyer can be found after this, the equipment will then be taken to the marketing agency of the provincial government where it is put up for open sale. The University cannot, it should be noted, enter into commercial transactions with staff members; University employees may buy surplus equipment only after it is turned over to the marketing agency.

If interest warrants it, a listing of available surplus equipment will become a regular feature in Folio. For further information, telephone Roy Bennett at 432-3208.

The following equipment has been listed by the Department of Pharmacology. The department is not so much interested in obtaining revenue as it is interested in disposing of this equipment as soon as possible. Anyone interested in any of this equipment should telephone John Folkinga at 432-3717.

PEOPLE

■ Walter Jungkind, Professor of Art and Design, has been awarded the Royal Academy of Arts Medal for 1976 in recognition of his contribution to Canadian visual arts and for his achievements as President of the International Council of Graphic Design Associations. Previous recipients of this award include Henry Moore, British sculptor, Allan Fleming, Director of Design for the University of Toronto Press, Norman McLaren, experimental film maker, and the Group of Seven (posthumously).

- A.D. Fisher, Associate Professor of Anthropology and Educational Foundations, was the recipient of two awards at the Christmas and awards banquet of the Northern Alberta Sportscar Club. Dr. Fisher received one trophy for third place overall in Club competitions, which include road racing, ice racing, and auto slaloms; he received another trophy for second place standing in the President's Cup competition, which includes Club competition, support of Club activities, and participation in Club activities as a track worker or official.
- Robert E. Brundin, Associate Professor of Library Science, attended a conference in Albuquerque, New Mexico, from 10 to 13 November. Among other things, the conference dealt with library networking and information referral, areas in which Dr. Brundin has special interests and teaching responsibilities.
- M.E.P. (Betty) Henderson, Professor and former Dean of Library Science, received an Achievement Award from the Province of Alberta in recognition of her outstanding service in librarianship. Professor Henderson is past President of the Canadian Library Association and a 1975 recipient of the LLD (honoris causa) from the University of Prince Edward Island.
- Howard Plewes, a first-year student in Engineering, received the Bell Northern Research Award. The award, a certificate and $500, is given annually to five outstanding students completing Grade 13 within the range of the Carleton Board of Education in Ottawa; recipients must continue on to university and enroll in engineering. mathematics, or natural sciences. Following graduation, Mr. Plewes intends to become involved with engineering problems in the Arctic.
- Norman Page, Professor of English, recently gave two lectures and a seminar at the University of British Columbia in connection with an exchange lectureship scheme organized between the Departments of English at UBC and the University of Alberta.

NON-CREDIT COURSES

INTRODUCTORY COURSE ON MENTAL RETARDATION

The Centre for the Study of Mental Retardation is offering an evening and weekend lecture-workshop to introduce mental retardation to parents, foster-parents, group home workers, and volunteer, novice, and non-professional personnel working with the retarded.

The program reviews the causes, characteristics, and classification of mental retardation; the principles of normalization; the medical aspects of retardation; learning and developmental characteristics; behavior management techniques; programming for growth; and social, emotional, and recreational development. In addition, a full-day tour will be made of various community facilities for the retarded. Lectures, workshops, discussion groups, and films will emphasize practical understanding and techniques for working with the retarded.

Classes begin on 18 January from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and will continue at the same time on 20 January and 8, 10, 15, 17, 22, and 24 February; classes on 12 February will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and those on 19 and 21 February from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. While the course is not meant to be used for University credit, a certificate may be obtained for its successful completion. The cost of the course, $20 single and $30 married couples, includes all course materials.

To register contact the Centre for the Study of Mental Retardation, 6-123 Education North, telephone 432-4439 or 432-4505.

USE OF TERMINALS

As an introduction to the use of computer terminals, this course includes practice in procedures for signing on to the system (MTS), information storage, and manipulation.

The course will be offered 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., 18 January to 20 January, and again

INTRODUCTION TO TEXT EDITING AND FORMATTING

This course involves the use of the file editor and *FMT program to edit texts and format manuscripts. It could be of use to students and members of staff (both non-academic and academic) wishing to use the MTS computing system to edit and produce papers, articles, theses, books, and other documents. Adequate computer time will be provided for students to do meaningful exercises. Use of Terminals is a prerequisite.

This course will be offered on Mondays, 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., 31 January to 28 February, and again 7 March to 4 April. There is a nominal fee of $10 ($20 for commercial clients). For further information telephone 432-2261.

NEGOTIATING AND ADMINISTERING COLLECTIVE AGREEMENTS

Negotiating and administering collective agreements will be examined in a ten-session evening course beginning 3 February. The course will aid in preparing negotiating personnel for collective bargaining and will assist all those involved in administering a collective agreement.

Among the topics to be covered are the legal framework, the parties to a collective agreement, collective agreement contents, labour economics, and rules and discipline.

The course will be held from 7 p.m, to 9:30 p.m.. The fee is $75 including materials and textbook. Registrations are accepted in 228 Corbett Hall. For additional information telephone 432-5066.

MANAGEMENT OF PERSONAL FINANCES

How to manage the money you have to your best advantage will be discussed in detail in this course. The topics include the role of personal finance, personal and family budgeting, consumer credit, investments, insurance principles and applications, will and estate planning, income tax overview, small business operations, and consumer behavior.

The course will be held for twelve Wednesdays beginning 2 February from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Registrations are accepted in 228 Corbett Hall. The fee is $55 including materials. For additional information telephone 432-5067.

MINI-COMPUTERS

A three-day seminar on mini-computers will be held from 23 to 25 February. The seminar has been designed to provide a thorough understanding of small computers and microprocessors at all levels. To further reinforce classroom computer experience, demonstrations of mini-computer and microprocessor application in research facilities will be given.

RESEARCH GRANTS

Granting Agencies: Application Deadlines

This list of deadline dates for submissions to granting agencies for research funds, exchange programs, and travel grants is published every month in Folio. In order to allow sufficient time for processing, all applications should reach the Research Grants and Contracts Office at least ten days before the deadline date. Where other University resources are involved, the time requirement may be much longer than ten days and such applications should therefore be submitted well in advance. An extra copy of the application should be provided for the Research Grants and Contracts Office.

Further information may be obtained by consulting the Calendar of Granting Agencies for Research Funds, Exchange Programs, and Travel Grants, which is available in the offices of Deans, Directors of Institutes and Centres, and Department Chairmen, or by telephoning the Research Grants and Contracts Office, 432-5360. Note: Although the Calendar is updated on a continuous basis, the following information could be subject to change without notice. If staff members have advanced information on forthcoming changes, the Research Grants and Contracts Office would appreciate being advised.

Code: (R) Research funds; (E) Exchange programs; (T) Travel grants.
